The National Museum of Computing at Bletchley Park

New video series

We want to let you know about a series of short videos we are producing at the museum. There are just the first three on the PDP8 computer at the moment, plus two excellent items on Colossus and last year's Cipher Challenge.

We shall certainly be producing more soon and next week we hope to add the start of a series about the Elliott 803. Click here to view the video clips

Support the museum

It's now easier than ever to support the museum - even from the US. We are relying on individuals like you to help us create a world class resource into the history of computing and an exciting visitor experience. Please click here to help!
